Hillary Abraham

Jury consultant Hillary Abraham leverages her multidisciplinary background in informatics and anthropology to work closely with clients at the intersection of juror decision-making and litigation.

Hillary's overarching goal is to reduce risks and uncertainties associated with trial advocacy by ascertaining effective themes to emphasize at trials, mediations, and critical appellate and trial court arguments. She leverages her decade of research experience in academic and industry settings to design research studies, facilitate focus groups, conduct mock trials, perform statistical analysis, and author articles.

Prior to joining ThemeVision, Hillary was a research specialist at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), where she focused on driver acceptance and understanding of semi-automated vehicles. At MIT, she managed multiple concurrent research projects on various scales, from brief online surveys to multi-year on-road studies of large vehicle fleets.

Hillary has been quoted extensively in popular media and has authored several peer-reviewed publications. She received her B.A in Anthropology from the University of Michigan and her M.S. in Informatics from the University of California, Irvine.
